From The Desk Of Editor

Global stock markets closed in negative in the week gone by as investors took off some money on concerns beginning from higher oil prices, to strengthening of 10 year treasury yield in U.S. and trade tensions between the two major nations i.e. U.S. and China. US Fed will release minutes from its May 2018 policy meeting on Wednesday, 23 May 2018. The Federal Reserve left its target range for the federal funds rate steady at 1.5-1.75 percent during its May 2018 meeting, in line with market expectations. Meanwhile, inflation in Japanese economy slowed for the second month in April coming at 1.7 percent struggling to hit central bank's desired level of 2 percent. The rise in oil prices to the levels not seen in more than three years, however, may result in higher inflation globally. Japanese economy shrank for the first time in two years in the first quarter ending March 2018 at an annualised rate of 0.6 percent due to fall in capital investment and flat private consumption.

Back at home, Industrial production for the month of March came in at 4.4 percent compared to a year ago, slowest in last five months. Political uncertainty in Karnataka, higher crude prices and sustained selling by foreign institutional investors in Indian equities kept pressure on the markets. FMCG companies' stocks were the favourite among the investors as major companies including Hindustan Unilever, Britannia, Jyothy Laboratories, etc. posted good set of numbers with buoyancy in volume growth. Metal companies especially steel companies posted good set of numbers with Tata Steel and JSW Steel announcing to expand production to record owing to high prices as result of lower exports from China and anticipated surge in domestic consumption because of expected spending from government on infrastructure. Next batch of January to March 2018 quarterly earnings, trend in global markets, investment by foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) and domestic institutional investors (DIIs) will dictate trend on the bourses next week. Also the movement of rupee against the dollar and crude oil prices will be closely watched.

On the commodity market front, Crude prices caught the attention of the entire world once again. Crude prices have been rising considerably...Brent is just few cents shy away from $80 mark whereas WTI is hovering near $72. Bullion counter has already witnessed a sharp fall, may trade in narrow range this week. Gold can face resistance near 31400 levels and dip lower towards 30600 levels. Crude oil prices can continue to move higher and can test key level of 5000 while it has key support near 4700. In base metal counter, Nickel may witness further recovery on expected supply deficit while trade negotiations between US and China will keep investors jittery. In agri complex, cotton counter is looking better on improved trading activities. CPI and GDP of UK, FOMC Meeting Minutes, Fed's Powell Joins Riksbank's 350th Anniversary Conference and Durable Goods Orders, etc are few data and events scheduled this week, which may be strong triggers for commodities.

Investment Rationale

- ONGC Limited is engaged in the exploration, development and production of crude oil and natural gas.
- It has drilled 503 wells in FY 18, which is the highest number of wells drilled in last 27 years. Among the 503 wells, 119 exploratory and 384 development wells were drilled. During FY'18, ONGC's planned capex outlay on drilling activities was Rs 16,038 crore with a target to drill 496 wells including 110 exploratory and 386 development wells. However, the company has drilled 503 wells at a cost of approx Rs 14,200 crore which is 11.5% lower than the budget outlay.
- For FY19, it has set a capex outlay of Rs 17,615 crore on drilling activities. It has set an ambitious target to drill 535 wells, of which 24 are deep-water development wells as part of Cluster-2 development of KG-DWN-98/2 project, off the East-Coast of India.
- During FY19, it would begin producing oil from the Ratna and R-Series oilfield in Mumbai offshore, which it won back after the government cancelled award to Essar Oil. Production from the fields is targeted to start in 2019 with an output of 10,000 barrels per day initially. CCEA had decided to return the fields to its original licensee after contract with Essar could not be concluded even after 20 years.
- Recently, ONGC Videsh-led Indian consortium has been awarded 10% stake in Lower Zakum Concession, Offshore Abu Dhabi. The concession award by the Supreme Petroleum Council (SPC), on behalf of the Abu Dhabi government, to the Abu Dhabi National Oil Company (ADNOC) and the Indian Consortium. The Indian consortium would contribute a sign-up bonus of $600 million to enter the concession for a 10% stake. The concession has a term of 40 years with an effective date of 9 March 2018.

- The current production in the said field is about 400,000 barrels of oil per day (bopd) and Indian consortium annual share shall be about 2 MMT. The field profile is to set to achieve plateau target of 450,000 bopd by 2025. It would marks entry of ONGC Videsh in highly prospective UAE region and is consistent with its stated strategic objective of adding high quality producing assets to its existing E&P portfolio.

Risk

- Trajectory of global crude prices
- Demand and Supply

Valuation:

The company has achieved good performance during Q3FY18 and management expects demand for crude oil would continue to rise from the strong consumption growth in petroleum products and prices are expected to firm up sharply. It is expected exploring and other activities would get benefit from free pricing, strong demand and stabilising capacity additions, thus we expect the stock to see a price target of Rs 261 in 8 to 10 months time frame on a target expected P/E of 11x and FY19 (E) earnings of Rs.23.75.

ADF Foods Limited (ADFFOODS)

The stock closed at Rs 262 on 18th May, 2018. It made a 52-week low at Rs 190 on 23rd March 2018 and a 52-week high of Rs. 347 on 01st December 2017. The 200 days Exponential Moving Average (EMA) of the stock on the daily chart is currently at Rs 243.74

After forming the double bottom formation on weekly chart at 190 levels, the stock bounced back sharply and regained momentum above its short and long term moving averages. Additionally, the stock has also given neckline breakout above the inverted head and shoulder pattern which is visible on weekly interval. The hefty volumes with rise in prices suggest that bulls are taking control over the stock and we may witness more upside in prices in coming sessions as well. Therefore, one can buy the stock in the range of 260-265 levels for the upside target of 295-298 levels with SL below 240.

AIA Engineering Limited (AIAENG)

The stock closed at Rs 1565 on 18th May, 2018. It made a 52-week low at Rs 1273 on 31st August 2017 and a 52-week high of Rs. 1709.75 on 18th December 2017. The 200 days Exponential Moving Average (EMA) of the stock on the daily chart is currently at Rs 1440.84.

After testing 1700 levels in recent past, the stock witnessed profit booking at higher levels and retraced back towards its 200 days exponential moving average on daily interval. Since then consolidation has been seen in prices as stock was swinging in range of 1320-1465 for more than twelve weeks. This week we have observed fresh consolidation breakout above the ascending triangle formation on weekly charts along with marginally higher volumes. Therefore, one can buy the stock in the range of 1550-1570 levels for the upside target of 1775-1780 levels with SL below 1420.

WEEKLY VIEW OF THE MARKET

Nifty dragged down due to liquidation of long positions. Recent data has turned negative and is indicating probability of further profit booking. We have seen aggressive call writing and put unwinding in recent trading sessions. Call writes were active in 10700, 10800 and 10900 strike calls indicating limited upside. This clearly indicates lack of buying interest and discomfort in the market. We are seeing continuous short buildup by FILs post Karnataka election results which indicates caution ahead. The levels of 10500 will remain crucial for this week as indicated by option open interest concentration. If Nifty falls below the 10500 mark, it could correct to 10200 levels on the back of further selling. On bounce, the index will face strong resistance at 10700-10750 levels. The options open interest concentration shifted at the 10800-strike calls with the 2nd highest open interest of above 50 lakh shares; among put options, the 10500-strike taking the total open interest to 52 lakh shares, with the highest open interest among put options. Implied Volatility (IV) of calls was up and closed at 11.79% while that for put options closed at 11.99%. The Nifty VIX for the week closed at 13.41% and is expected to be volatile. The PCR OI for the week closed down at 1.18 which indicates puts unwinding & call writing. Overall data has turned negative and more weakness can be seen. Next support is placed around 10500-10450 levels.

OUTLOOK

SPICES

A consolidation can be seen in turmeric futures (June) as it may trade in the range of 7000-7600 levels. There is a still selling pressure over the counter and also the buying has slowed down due to the inflow of inferior quality produce and slack upcountry demand. In Nizamabad, the arrival of turmeric has decreased and in other markets also, arrivals are declining, but due to the extremely hot weather, very few buyers are now active in the markets. Such a phenomenon can be seen for the next fortnight. This year, the demand has also risen on the exports front and also from the ayurvedic medicine and cosmetic industries. At present, good quality and dried turmeric is being seen in the markets and in the coming days, in view of the uptrend, traders and stockiest can be seen active for stocking. Jeera futures (June) is likely to face resistance near 16300 levels & the upside may remain capped. The market participants are cautious and they expect a correction in near term as the new crop in Syria and Turkey will start from June to July, which may exert a downside pressure over the counter. In news, the Spices Board of India has tightened the norms for mandatory sampling and testing of jeera. Coriander futures (June) will possibly witness a strong upside towards 5000-5050 levels, as soon as it surpasses the resistance near 4920 levels. At the spot markets, the traders are actively buying the dry coriander for sowing, so that they can provide good seeds to the farmers, before the onset of monsoon.

OIL AND OILSEEDS

Soybean futures (June) is expected to remain stable & consolidate in the range of 3740-3850 levels. Looking at the dwindling inventories the downside in soybean is expected to be limited and if soybean meal demand remains around current pace than there is higher possibility that the counter will continue to trade with an upside bias. Recently, a balance sheet was drawn by the Soybean Processors Association of India (SOPA), which cited that the total availability of soybean during the season 2017-18 (Oct-Sept) was estimated at 96.50 lakh tones, while disposal was estimated at 95.50 lakh tons (retained for sowing 12 lakh tons, 1.50 lakh tons as direct consumption, 2 lakh tons in export and rest 80 lakh tons used from crushing), leaving ending stock at only 1 lakh ton. Refined soy oil futures (June) is likely to trade with a downside bias & remain below 780 levels, while CPO futures (June) might witness profit booking from higher levels facing resistance near 668 levels. The recent edible oil import figures show that during last month 13.86 lakh tonnes of vegetable oils were imported and was reported to be the highest so far during the current oil year (November 2017-October 2018 period). This depicts that the supply side will be comfortable and likely to exert downside pressure on edible oil prices. Mustard seed futures (June) will possibly trade sideways to up in the range of 3850-4050 levels. At the spot markets, the stockists are in wait and watch mode as they want to procure this oilseed at the lower levels, while crushers demand is getting better due to rising demand for mustard oil.

OTHER COMMODITIES

Chana futures (June) is likely to take support near 3580 levels & the downside may remain capped. In recent times, the government has tightened norms for the import of pulses to ensure the arrest of fall in prices & in the latest move has introduced a quota system only for millers and refiners for the import of tur, moong and urad. These measures are likely to give positive cues to the chana prices. Cotton futures (May) would continue to face resistance near 21000 levels, while on the contrary the downside may remain capped near the support of 20350 levels. The market participants are closely watching many factors from rupee to movement of cotton prices on the international market. The fundamentals are giving a mixed picture because on one side, rupee is hovering near its yearly low against the dollar and giving a hope to the Indian exports a prospect of higher exports, while on the contrary the uptrend of international cotton prices has paused as the weather conditions in Texas are in favour of the crop. In the domestic market, the main buyers of cotton at present are medium-small mills, while big mills are mostly sidelined as they have procured sufficient stocks to meet their demand. Mentha oil futures (June) is likely to witness a downside momentum & can even test 1120-1100 levels. In days to come, the counter will face a selling pressure as the arrivals from the new crop are expected to gain pace on the spot markets of Sambhal & Barabanki. For this year, the output of mentha oil is estimated at 40,000-42,000 tons, up nearly 35% on year.

BULLIONS

Bullion counter may continue to witness selling pressure as surge in greenback and rising US yields is keeping prices under pressure but short covering can be seen lower levels. Investors will focus their attention towards Fed Chair Powell speech and FOMC meeting minutes of last meeting in this week. Meanwhile geopolitical tensions such as Iran sanctions and between US and North Korea can cap the downside to some extent. Sharp depreciation in local currency rupee has curtailed the fall on domestic bourses to larger extent as it has depreciated by nearly 6% so far in 2018. This week expected decrease in US PMI and durable goods order data can cap the downside. Gold can face resistance near 31400 levels and dip lower towards 30600 levels. While silver can take support near 39500 levels and can face resistance near 40500 levels. US 10 year treasury yields extended their climb last week above 3.10% as higher growth and inflation expectations, along with concerns of a more aggressive Federal Reserve weighed on appetite for U.S. government bonds. Sharp fall in euro amid political uncertainty in Italy is also pushing the greenback higher. U.S. President Donald Trump acknowledged that it was unclear, if his summit with North Korea would go ahead after Pyongyang threatened to pull out of the unprecedented meeting. St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank President James Bullard believes that Fed's policy rate is "pretty close" to neutral, and that further rate hikes would act to slow economic growth and push downward on inflation.

ENERGY COMPLEX

Crude oil price may continue its steady upside on supply concerns after US imposed fresh sanctions on Iran coupled with drop in the US stockpiles. However, profit booking cannot be denied at higher levels on increasing US production and on lower demand estimates by IEA. The International Energy Agency cut forecasts for global oil demand growth in 2018 as the highest prices in three years put a brake on consumption. OPEC and its allies have finally succeeded in their 16-month campaign to clear a global oil glut, with inventories falling below their five-year average for the first time since 2014. Besides lowering its demand outlook, stronger prices also prompted the IEA to increase estimates for supply from OPEC's rivals, particularly the U.S. Production outside the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will grow by 1.87 million barrels a day this year, or 85,000 a day more than previously thought. Crude oil prices can continue to move higher and can test key level of 5000 while it has key support near 4700. Natural gas can continue to show recovery on weather related demand as it can test 198 while it has key support near 185 levels. U.S. natural gas jumped to three-month high on prospects that warm weather expected for the next few weeks will boost air conditioning demand enough to limit the amount of gas available to go into storage. EIA reported that working gas in storage was 1,538 Bcf on May 11, 2018, which represents a net increase of 106 Bcf from the penultimate week and the expectations were for a 105 Bcf build.

BASE METALS

In base metal counter, Nickel may witness further recovery on expected supply deficit while trade negotiations between US and China will keep investors jittery. Copper can face resistance near 467 and can slip lower towards 455. China's refined copper output in April jumped 12.3 percent compared to same period last year to 778,000 tonnes. Japanese copper miners JX Nippon Mining & Metals and Sumitomo Metal Mining plan to increase output from their mines in Chile this year, but are facing challenges in bringing them to full capacity and meeting profit targets. Zinc may trade sideways as it can take support near 204-206 levels and can face resistance near 215 levels. Chinese steel and iron ore recovered to an eight-week high as the outlook for steel demand remained upbeat. With construction activity in China in full swing, steel inventories have continuously fallen since March and production by Chinese mills jumped in April to the highest daily average in four years. Nickel prices can take support near 970 and can recover towards 1040. According to the International Nickel Study Group, "The global nickel market deficit widened to 15,700 tonnes in March from a revised deficit of 6,600 tonnes in the previous month". Lead may continue to show recovery as it can take support near 158 and recover towards 166. Aluminium can trade on mixed path as it can take support near 148 and resistance near 160 in MCX. On-warrant aluminium stocks in warehouses certified by the London Metal Exchange inventories that are not earmarked for delivery surged by 153,075 tonnes last week.

WEEKLY COMMENTARY

Crude prices caught the attention of the entire world once again. Crude prices have considerably soared new high in past few year...Brent is just few cents shy away from $80 mark whereas WTI is hovering near $72. Back at home, on Monday MCX commenced options trading in crude oil contract. On first day, the contract has witnessed traded volume of 2058 lots with value of Rs101.67cr. To note, the exchange has currently launched June and July 2018 option contracts in crude oil, with one MCX crude oil futures contract (100 barrel) as the underlying. Crude ignored the super rally in dollar index whereas bullion counter played perfect the negative correlation with dollar index. The dollar firmed after the euro retreated to a five-month low on concerns political developments in Italy could cause wider disruptions in the euro bloc, while rising U.S. Treasury yields knocked emerging market currencies lower. Dollar index hit the high of 93.63 last week. US treasury yields-maintained Tuesday's advance with 10 year and 2 year yield notes sitting comfortably above key markers and reaching their highest level in a decade at 3.1% and 2.59% respectively. Gold saw sharp downside in COMEX while in MCX, fall was limited because of depreciation in rupee. Silver prices too fell on weak gold prices. Domestic demand for gold jewellery is likely to decline by 2-4% this calendar year due to high prices, as ICRA. However, in value terms, the demand for gold jewellery is likely to register a growth of 5-7% during the year. In base metal, all most all the metals traded with upside bias; strength was more in zinc, nickel and lead. The real factor driving up the price of zinc is the lack of supply. Wood Mackenzie expects there will be a deficit of 350,000 tonnes this year and 150,000 tonnes in 2019. Inventory now sits at 176,275 tonnes, the lowest since 2008.

In agri commodities, oils seeds and edible oil traded with bearish bias, except soyabean. Cotton and chana counter gave good upside whereas spices performed mix. Mentha was sharply down and guar counter managed to gain some buying momentum on upside in crude. Refined soya oil prices eased further as speculators engaged in trimming positions owing to weak demand at the spot market against adequate stocks position. In spices, dhaniya showed gradual recovery from the lower levels.

Buoyed by the forecast of a normal monsoon in 2018, the agriculture ministry has targeted a record 283.7 million tonnes of foodgrain production in 2018-19.

Although the bumper production spells good for farmers, government and for better economic growth, but not always a guarantee for cheering farmers. Adequate supply of agriculture produce keep food inflation under check, but it also weigh on prices to slide below the production cost that increase the misery of farmers. The government has also to be face a daunting task of ensuring farmers a fair and remunerative price for their produce.

Recently due to bumper production estimates of chana due to higher acreage driven by higher MSP, the mandi prices of chana nosedived below production costs and MSP of Rs 4400. The lack of procurement processes and infrastructure are forcing farmers to distress sell their produce in the open market.

Market Stance

Once again rupee continued its journey towards south and plunged sharply against the dollar in the week gone by to test 16 month low as emerging market currencies witnessed selloff on the back of firm dollar overseas. The dollar hovered near a five-month high against a group of major currencies as a surge in the benchmark 10-year Treasury yield above 3 per cent reignited a rally that had lost steam last week. The dollar has gained since mid-April as easing tensions in the Korean Peninsula and moves by China and the United States to avoid a full-blown trade war allowed investors to focus on the yield advantage the United States enjoys over other countries. The advance stalled last week after weaker-than-expected April US inflation data, but regained traction overnight as strong US consumer spending numbers sent long-term Treasury yields surging to a seven-year peak of 3.095 per cent.
