MACRO ANALYSIS

The improved risk sentiment has proven to be beneficiary for emerging currencies but not much the pass through came for Indian rupee amid strong domestic central bank intervention. However recent Google's deal with Reliance to the tune of Rs 33,000 crores as well as MSCI rebalancing flows helped to remain above 74.20 against dollar mark. We continue to think the emerging market FPI flows will keep Asian currencies on higher side in coming weeks.

Meanwhile the Dow Jones index reached 30,000 for the first time as the financial market cheers the start of the transition to a Biden administration as well as hope of better US fiscal policy from the in-coming US Treasury Secretary Jennet Yellen. At the same time oil prices reached highest level since March amid decent progress in vaccine development.

From the majors, euro continues to bounce from the latest slide after slightly positive economic releases notably from Germany. Accordingly the German economy grew by 8.5% in third quarter slightly better than expected and a reversal from a 9.7% contraction in second quarter. On the other hand Pound started on a flat note in early Asian session but we think Brexit latest development will keep positive momentum in both euro and pound as well in coming trading sessions.
