Market Update (Bullions)

Bullion counter may witness selling movement, where it may take support near 57900 and could face resistance near 58500. Silver also witness profit booking, where it may take support near 67000 and could face resistance near 68800. Gold prices edged higher on Thursday as troubles at Swiss lender Credit Suisse renewed fears of banking crisis worldwide and steered traders towards the safe-haven metal. Data on Wednesday showed U.S. retail sales fell 0.4% in February as purchases of motor vehicles and other goods slumped. Separate data showed U.S. producer prices unexpectedly fell 0.1% in February. Markets now see a 51.1% chance of rates being held at current levels at the U.S. Federal Reserve's March meeting. The dollar index eased 0.1%, making bullion less expensive for buyers holding other currencies. U.S. benchmark 10-year Treasury yields were lower.

Market Update (Base Metals)

Base metals may trade with mixed bias, whereas copper may move in the range of 747-758. Copper prices edged up on Thursday as signs of demand recovery from top consumer China supported the investors' buying appetite. China's February new home prices rose at the fastest pace since July 2021, official data showed on Thursday, as Beijing's move to reopen the economy and supportive property sector policies boosted demand. Mining exports from Peru, the world's second-largest producer of copper, dropped 19.8% in January, compared with a year-ago period, the sector's business chamber said on Tuesday, in the wake of devastating protests that have rocked the country in recent months. Zinc may post selling where it may take support near 254 and could face resistance near 260. Lead may move with sideways trend and trade in the range of 180-183. Aluminum may trade bearish bias, where it may take support near 201 and resistance near 204.

Market Update (Energy)

Energy counter may witness bearish move, where Crude oil may trade in the range of 5500-5620. Oil prices rose in early Asian trade on Thursday, clawing back some ground from more than one-year lows hit in the previous session as markets calmed somewhat after Credit Suisse was thrown a financial lifeline by Swiss regulators. European Central Bank policymakers are seen leaning towards a half-percentage-point rate hike as the euro zone economy is picking up strength and inflation is set to remain high for years. Higher interest rates can lead to depressed demand for oil as economic growth slows, but concerns of a deepening financial crisis for the banking sector could also weigh on oil demand. The Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) on Tuesday further raised its forecast for Chinese oil demand growth in 2023 due to the relaxation of the country's COVID-19 curbs, although it left the global demand total steady, citing potential downside risks for world growth. Natural gas prices may trade in the range of 198-210.
